

Voice Burps for Good and Bad

By Bess Shepherd

Once upon a time, there was a stink monster who was called Sue the Stink Monster. And she stunk so much that she made people go unconscious. And she used this for the forces of evil. One day she was walking along, feeling hungry, but she had no money. But she was walking right past the bank. And then, she went inside the bank, and stunk so much that all the people had to leave the bank. And she got all of the money. It was $1000 that she got.

She then went to Panera, and the helpers at Panera asked, "Please, please, don't come in. You'll make us go unconscious. We'll give you all the food you want if we can bring it outside to you."

She said, "Yes, if you give me 31 smoothies.

They said, "Yes, yes. We'll do anything if you don't come inside."

She said, "Ok, but I want my 31 smoothies right now." "Yes, yes," they said.

She said, "Get them ready in 10 minutes, or I'm coming inside."

So they rushed around, and they got them ready.

So she drank them all, all 31 of them. It made her feel like singing with her voice. But the sound that came out wasn't beautiful. It was the stinkiest burp ever. It made people go unconscious even more.

She did this over and over again, stealing lots of money, and drinking huge amounts of smoothies, with her voice making lots of stinky burps. And if the police came, they would go unconscious. So after a while, the police didn't even try.

Luckily there was a superhero named Margaret the Perfume Person. Her super power was the opposite power of Sue the Stink Monster. When Margaret the Perfume Person opened her mouth, her voice would make the most beautiful singing sound ever, and her mouth would make the most beautiful burp smells that you would ever smell. Even if she was in the stinkiest room with the stinkiest socks and the stinkiest dirty laundry, the room would suddenly smell the best ever.

Then Margaret the Perfume Person went to town, and she saw everybody in blankets come up to her. Sue the Stink Monster had stolen all of their coats and money, and they had to sleep in the street. They said, "Please can you help us. There is the stinkiest villain in this town, and she is taking all our money and all our smoothies. Her name is Sue the Stink Monster. So please can you help us."

So Margaret the Perfume Person said, "Where is the stinky villain? Where is Sue?"

The people said, "See she's right over there, right outside of Panera. She's drinking 31 more smoothies."

Then Margaret the Perfume Person ran over there. She hated the smell of Sue the Stink Monster, but she knew she had to resist it. Then she drank a big bubbly soda, and let rip a big, beautiful burp that sounded like a violin. It was a big huge perfume burp that smelled the best of anything in the world, like hot chocolate. So nobody could smell Sue the Stink Monster any more, because Margaret the Perfume Person made it smell like hot chocolate.

After that, Sue the Stink Monster never smelled bad again ever. She had lost her super stink power. Margaret the Perfume Person had saved the day with a beautiful burpy voice.

The End